Taken to the Harbor General Hospital were James Fitzgerald, 15, of Gardena, with a possible skull fracture; James Edwards, 15, of Lawndale, with minor injuries; and Lavolla Brinkley, 14, of Hawthorne, with minor injuries.

Unemployment Figures Show Steady Decline

Unemployment in the Torrance area has taken a considerable dip during the past two months with 42 per cent fewer persons seeking employment in April than in February, so stated Mrs. Wilona Ellis, manager of the local office of the California Employment Service.

In February 642 persons in seven different classifications were seeking employment thru the office at Gramercy and Cravens avenue. As of April 9, the number seeking work dropped to 372 persons, Mrs. Ellis said.

Increased activity in defense plants in the area was credited with the drop in unemployment. Of the number currently seeking employment 205 are women.

"Many of the women are housewives re-entering the labor market for defense work," Mrs. Ellis claims.

Of the 167 men seeking work 32 per cent are veterans. The following table shows the steady decline in all seven job classifications during the past two months.

	Feb.	April
Professional	31	12
Clerical	106	76
Sales Clerks	50	29
Service	104	57
Skilled	111	64
Semi-skilled	105	53
Labor	135	171

The employment uptrend which became evident in the past 30 days should continue over the next four months. During the projected period the strongest demand for labor will stem from the durable goods manufacturing industries. Since to date the metal trades and aircraft industries have sponsored training programs geared to meet only their immediate needs, the demand for professional, technical, skilled and experienced workers will continue to exceed the supply.

The current shortage of electrical, mechanical, and aeronautical engineers, machinists, tool and die makers, pattern makers, aircraft assemblers, and all types of metalworking machine operators as well as shortages in related occupational groups are expected to increase in volume.

Kathy Fiscus Law Lacks Legal Teeth

City Attorney James Hall took steps Tuesday night to correct a quirk in the Kathy Fiscus law.

The law makes it a misdemeanor to maintain an open pit, sump, or well. BUT, Attorney Hall discovered, there is no penalty for the crime.

Hall was attempting to use the law last week to cite a Long Beach man, an operator of an oil well in Torrance, for maintaining an open oil sump when he discovered the law had "no teeth in it."

The South Bay Humane Society reported that four dogs had been rescued within the past 11 days from an oil sump at Sepulveda boulevard and Western avenue.

The operator of the well and sump, J. L. O'Donnell, stated he would fill and fence in the sump immediately.

Hall asked the City Council for permission to amend the law to include a penalty for the crime. He got it.

Machine Shop Classes Give Valuable Aid

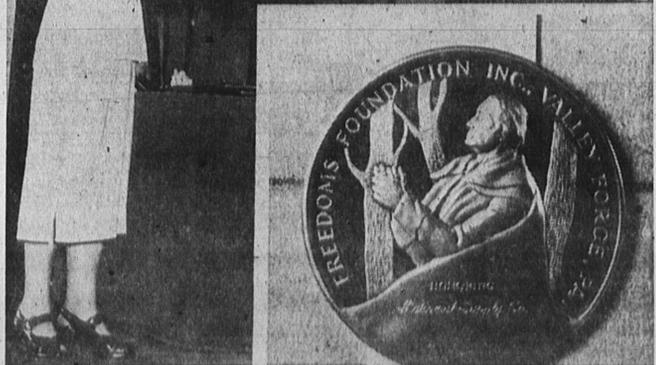

"War or no war," says instructor Tom Bray of the free adult machine shop classes at the Torrance Adult School, "there is nothing more satisfying for present and future years than a substantial knowledge of a well recognized trade like machine work."

Four free adult classes are open to all adults regardless of residence at the Torrance Evening High School. They are held each evening from 6:30 to 10 Monday through Thursday. Both beginning and advanced students are welcome, and each may work on his own individual project.

Those beginning this training need no previous experience. They may, after conference with the instructor, decide on the particular type of work they plan to enter. Instruction can be given in drill press, shaper, mill, grinder, lathe work, and use of hand tools.

"In addition to defense training, machine shop work is a vital industry in peace time factories," Mr. Bray points out. "Machine Shop" he went on "is a double barrel trade. Always good for the good man."

Court Justices and heads of national patriotic societies and civic organizations. Chairman of the 1950 awards jury was Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State College. Tartar Teen Talk

By MARIAN McDONALD

A week ago last Tuesday the faculty sat around council fires at Torrance High planning the various committees and all the details for this year's operetta, "Belle of Bagdad," to be presented May 3 and 4. The faculty is cooperating with the student body in every way possible to make this operetta a big success.

Mr. Kilburn is handling the business end and ticket sales; Miss Mabel Kloster and Mr. Don Bradford are the teachers in charge of publicity; Mr. Wang and Mr. Newton Metfessel will be general chairmen. Dances are already in progress with Mrs. Betty Schaefer and Miss Doris Avis in charge. Mr. Dan Desmond will rehearse all speaking parts and assist in some of the dance numbers. The high school orchestra will be under the very capable direction of Mr. Harold Dunn. Mrs. Evangeline Morris will be in charge of stage scenery, sets, posters and advertising.

Mr. George Zavislian, the man behind the scenes, is rehearsing all talented singers and choruses for this operetta. It is his hope, and all of our hopes, that everyone will attend the performances of "Belle of Bagdad" on May 3 and 4. After seeing and hearing such splendid performances in the "Brevester Boy" what's to keep us from selling out all the seats in the high school auditorium, for the coming operetta, "Belle of Bagdad."

Tomorrow, the 13th of April, Mr. Allen's first period geometry class and Miss Stanford's first period sewing class have a date with the beach. Why? They won the PTA membership drive. Let this be a lesson to all those who didn't turn in memberships this year.

Today our track team is competing in the field events at the Inglewood Relays. Best of luck boys.

Also today the baseball team is playing Leuzinger there and the Junior Varsity is playing Leuzinger here.

Did you see all those students wandering around school last week looking worried and harassed with a hand full of notes and gesturing wildly? Well don't be worried about them, they were just practicing for the annual Lions Club speech contest. Coming out on top to represent Torrance High in this contest were Barbara Jackson, Jo Ann Radulovich, and Rodger Wright. Good luck to three very fine speech makers.

The Freshmen and Sophomore classes have been very busy lately running around the halls, holding whispered conferences, and trying to keep everything a big secret. Well, seeing people, and trying to keep everything a big secret. Well, it finally came out. These two classes are sponsoring an April Frolics Dance in the Civic Auditorium, April 20 from 7:30 to 11:30. Fifty cents a couple and stag. But of course the Freshmen and Sophomores get in for twenty-five cents if they have paid their class dues.

The TTG Club and Dramatic Arts Classes are planning to attend the El Camino musical "Of Thee I Sing" at the Redondo High School Auditorium April 13. On the 27th of April they are planning to go to Los Angeles City College to see the very famous play "Taming of the Shrew."
